

SCOTT GARVIN

AIA, LEED AP

President

Born and raised in Aiken, South Carolina, Scott Garvin graduated from Clemson University in 1984 with a Bachelor's Degree in Design. He received his Masters in Architecture in 1986 from Clemson and spent a semester in Italy for overseas study. After working in Greenville for a few years, Scott relocated to Columbia and has practiced architecture in the region for more than 30 years. He established Garvin Design Group in 2003. He has been involved in the design and management of more than $900,000,000 worth of projects and launched Garvin Design Group in order to provide client-driven design solutions, utilizing more strategic delivery models. Scott is directly involved with every project with a particular focus on the client's objectives, schedule, and budget. He also spearheads the corporate business and marketing functions of the firm. Scott's has been involved with significant projects around the state, including the USC Strom Thurmond Wellness Center, the revitalization of the Olympia and Granby Mills and Palmetto Compress Warehouse, and the expansion of the Peace Center for the Performing Arts in Greenville. In addition to City Market, some of his recent local projects include Halls Chophouse and Hendrix, two of Main Street's hottest restaurants.

Beyond the studio, he is actively involved in the Executive Association of Greater Columbia, the Vista Guild, and the Clemson Architectural Foundation, among other organizations. AIA South Carolina recognized Scott's impact on the state and the profession this past year when it awarded Garvin Design Group the organization's Firm Award. Garvin Design Group is 12th winner in the award's 26-year history.
